

Trump, Brexit and Rapture

I caught a lot of static over the last few months predicting Donald Trump could win the Presidency. "Wishful thinking" was a common response. "Delusional" was also quite common. Others cringed at the thought of someone with such an unbridled tongue being President.

But from the time I heard Trump speak in NYC in June, I was convinced he could pull it off. It was going to take someone outside the the status-quo political arena to break the Satanic hold on our nation. The last thing we needed was another politician--from either party!

Any other Republican candidate like Cruz, Rubio, Carson, Bush, etc. (take your pick), would have lost and Clinton would now be setting up her evil cabinet.

GOP 2016--one outsider defeats 16 insiders

It took a non-politically-correct man who had the money and the brass stones to withstand over $100 million in negative ads in swing states alone. I, like you, winced at every new sinful revelation the liberals found.

But I continued to argue that this was not about how much sin is in one's life. Jesus said:

"He who is without sin among you, let him be the first to throw a stone ..." John 8:7

And John wrote:

"If we say that we have no sin, we are deceiving ourselves and the truth is not in us."
1 John 1:8

So Trump's business and personal life were easy marks for the liberal media upon which to unleash their venomous attacks. Even decades-old private conversations were fair game. For him to win it would have to be a "God-thing." Nothing else explains it.

I was first encouraged in late June when the Brexit vote in Great Britain stunned the world. Tracking polls showed those voting against Britain exiting the European Union would easily carry the day. Most polls had the vote to exit the EU losing by 10-15 points.

But the British were fed up with being told by the EU they had to continue to take in hundreds of thousands of Muslims who refused to adopt British customs, language and culture. They didn't say it publicly, but the Brits were seething over losing control of their beloved country to the New World Order folks.

And they shocked the world by quietly voting in mass to get out from under the thumb of the EU. No one saw it coming.

Much like the conditions behind Great Britain's Brexit vote, Americans were also seething over a number of cultural issues. The liberals in power were unapologetically pushing their godless agenda down the conservatives' throats. They had the bit in their teeth and Clinton was anointed to finish the job Obama had begun.

Liberals take pride in their "help the common man" platform. But Bernie Sanders let the cat out of the bag and called it what it was: Socialism... which is a stepping stone to Communism. They openly poked fun at Evangelical Christian conservatives. The liberal press continuously covered up any revealed Clinton slime.

The polls were all wrong because 96% of the liberal media elite vote Democratic.

They're basically an extension of the Democratic Party to push their platform. They couldn't see the forest for the trees.

They refused to face the fact that majority of this country leans toward Christian values and were internally angry over the unbiblical Satanic swine they were being forced to swallow. They may not have admitted it openly, but they had reached the end of their rope.

Thankfully, God heard the cumulative prayers of these Believers who felt backed into a corner. Certainly not because we deserved it--Christians have sat quietly on the sidelines while some 60 million helpless innocent babies have been murdered over the last 40 years in this country. That alone should have this nation's populace eating dirt and worms without water.

But by His grace, God has given us our own Brexit moment...maybe even a Nineveh moment. Maybe this is God's answer to our prayers by temporarily slowing the progress toward the Biblically prophesied One World Order. He may have amazingly given us a reprieve from the illegal and unchecked madness of those in power.

When God saw their deeds, that they turned from their wicked way, then God relented concerning the calamity which He had declared He would bring upon them. And He did not do it.
Jonah 3:10

So now what?

If this is what God has allowed for good, don't think for a moment the battle is over. In Britain the liberals are trying to get the Brexit vote thrown out on a technicality. They will try anything here too. Those losing power are already plotting and scheming against the Trump Administration.

Don't be fooled by the kind and conciliatory words of Clinton and Obama. Obama's not happy because he knows everything he has illegally put in place will be thrown out as soon as Trump has the reigns.

For instance, the recent "Trump riots" you see on television are not real grass root riots at all. They're professional thugs that are paid/hired and bused into cities to wreak havoc in front of television cameras.* And they are financed by none other than George Soros himself, one of the world's top dogs pushing for a New World Order.

So the first order of business is for Believers to continue to pray for President-elect Trump. It was God Who allowed this election result and it will be God Who allows President Trump to make the needed changes.

Believers should pray for Trump every day. EVERY DAY it should be on your prayer list. Pray for his protection, to have Godly advisors/wisdom and continued courage to stand up to the evil in this world.

Ephesians 6 tells us in no uncertain terms that we're not up against flesh and blood. Satan and his minions are what's behind all the evil you see. Thankfully, we have the Spirit of the Creator God of the universe living in us.

1 John 4:4 "...greater is He who is in you than he who is in the world."

Phil. 4:13 "I can do all things through Him who strengthens me."

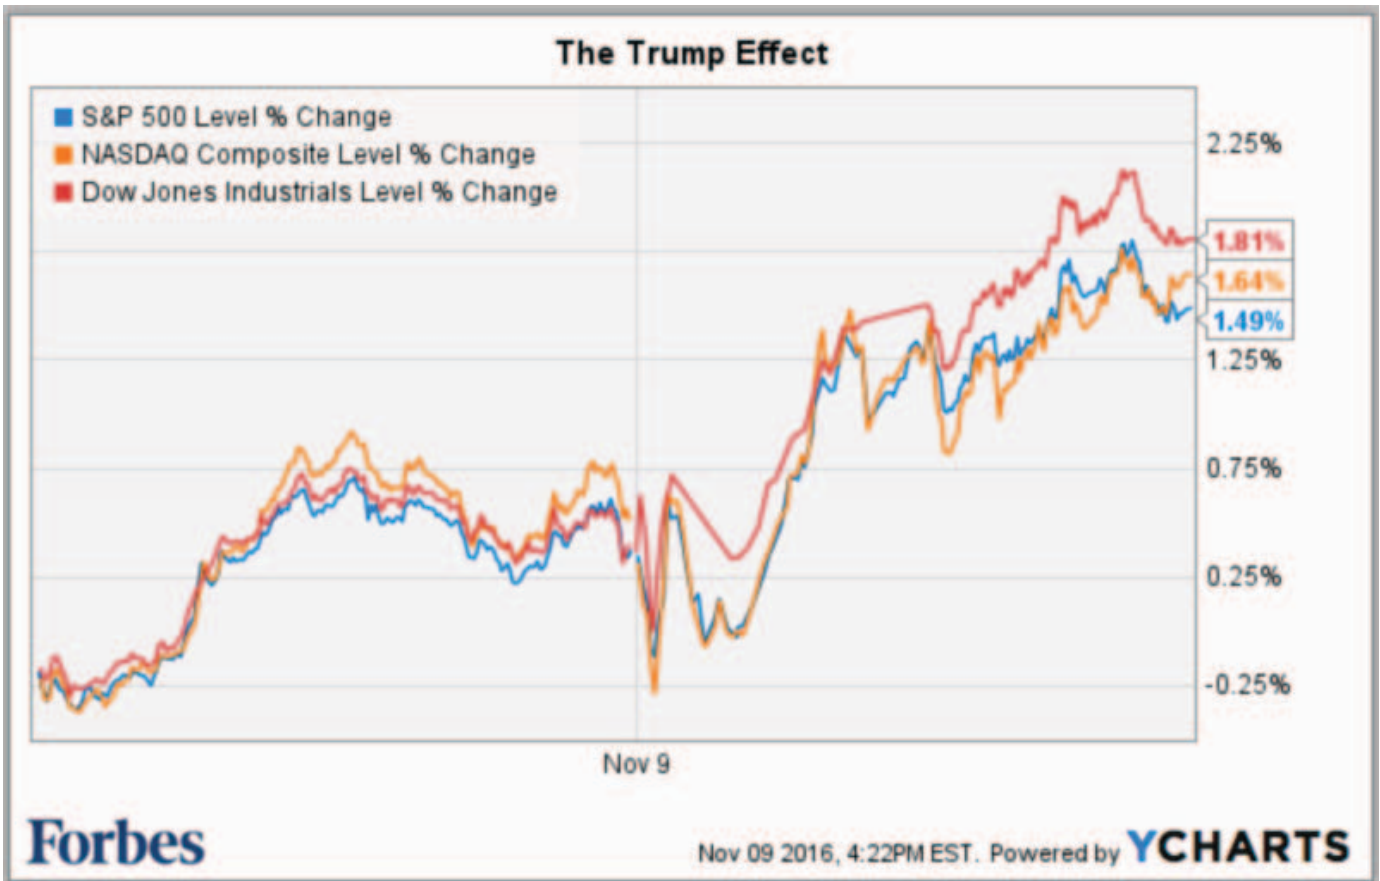

We CAN do all things through Him. You can't, God can. He's given us this moment in time to armor up because the eye of the hurricane will eventually pass. Expect it.

Trump and Rapture

So does the Trump victory mean the Rapture is more or less likely to happen soon? The safe answer for my theologian friends is, of course, neither. God has a future date set in stone.

However, the Trump victory does seem like it fits better with Matthew 24 and Luke 17. Those verses say things should be normal before the Rapture. They specifically mention "planting and harvesting," "eating and drinking," "building" and social events. Normal things in life. If Trump rights our sinking ship a bit, it would fit scripture like a glove.

Contrary to what was predicted, the stock market is rallying. The money people think Trump will do better than Obama on managing the economy.

To take a more detailed look into the Christians' response to Trump's victory, we've added a title to our Steeling the Mind Bible Conference this February in Spokane, "Christians in a Nineveh Moment," by Dave Reagan.

Dave will take us in-depth through the Biblical perspectives of where we are and what we should be doing as we live in what could easily be described as the eye of a hurricane. His presentation will be great Biblical armor regardless of how long our "Nineveh moment" lasts.

So make plans to join us live in Spokane or via live simulcast into your home or church!
